Germans Flee Ruman Towns

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, March 20 (AP) — Red army troops driving west through the region of the Ukraine and south through the Moldavian Soviet republic (Bessarabia) have advanced within sight of the Carpathian mountains, the great eastern European chain between Russia and the Balkans, Pravda declared today.

Pravda said the Germans were driven to the verge of chaos, and that the time was ripe for decisive blows "from the east, west and south" — meaning an Allied invasion of Europe.

(London dispatches said to the north the German high command announced evacuation of the outflanked defense bastion of Vinnitsa. Zhmerinka to the southwest of Vinnitsa already had fallen. The German withdrawal widened the Red Army breakthrough on the middle Bug river sector, chopping off part of the Nazi line east of Proskurov.

AIM TO CLEAR UKRAINE

(The German communique said Vinnitsa, where the invaders had waged a stubborn defense for weeks, was evacuated according to plan after destruction of war installations—the usual German phraseology. The Red plunge into Bessarabia posed a new threat to the Germans, as well as to the satellite government of Rumania.)

After smashing the German fortress of Kremenets in the west and crossing the Dniester river in the south, Soviet forces faced the immediate objective of clearing the Germans out of the Ukraine.

The Russians' three Ukranian armies wheeled in a southwesterly direction along a 500-mile front from the high hills of the western Ukraine to the coast of the Black Sea, gradually folding back the entire German force in southern Russia.

Kremenets, where the Germans had converted an ancient fort into a modern base, was taken yesterday by a quick encircling maneuver. The Russians were pressing on toward Lwow, 70 miles to the west.

A dispatch to Pravda said the rough terrain in this sector, which abounds with forests, swamps, streams and hills, together with spring floods had created "unheard of difficulties" for an advance, but that swift flank attacks were overcoming one enemy base after another.

RUSSIA—Arrows indicate principal Russian drives, including the advance across the Dneister river into old Rumania, where Siroki was captured. Reds also were reported fighting in outskirts of Mogilev-Podolski. In old Poland the Russians toppled Kremenets.

Nazis Win Hill From 5th Army

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, March 20 (AP)—The Germans have suceeded in reinforcing their remaining strong points in Cassino and have regained a hill to the west from Fifth Army troops in heavy fighting, Allied headquarters announced today.

On the town's southwestern fringe Allied infantry and armor continued to attack enemy forces holed-up in ruins in and around the Continental Hotel.

About 100 German prisoners were taken in the battle for the wreckage of the hotel, in ruins of which the Germans had installed two tanks.

Fifth Army kept a firm hold on the railway station, a mile south of the town, although the Germans shelled it heavily with mortars and artillery.

As tanks fired and attacking New Zealanders battled to clear the enemy from all the main part of the town, large numbers of prisoners were taken.

The hotel is strategically situated in the area where Highway 6 leaves the town leading west

Sharp fighting broke cut yesterday on the Anzio beachhead and elsewhere on the main Fifth Army front, but the announcement said no important changes occurred.

During yesterday, 32 enemy aircraft were destroyed in operations that included American heavy bomber operations against targets around the Austrian cities of Klagenfurt and Graz and the Yugoslav cities of Knin and Metkovic. Seventeen Allied planes were lost in all operations, which totalled 1800 individual flights.

Major Burma Battle Seen Near

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press War Editor

A major battle apparently is shaping up in the Chindwin front in Burma. Large Japanese forces have crossed the Chindwin river and are driving on Imphal, which guards an approach to the Indian border.

In the north central sector south of Myitkyina, glider-borne Allied troops have expanded their holdings around their two airfields in heavy fighting.

Lieut.-Gen. Stilwell's Chinese and American soldiers in the north have cleaned out Hukawng valley and are striking at a pass leading into important Mogaung valley.

Twenty-one days after it started, the conquest of the Admiralty Islands is over and the Allies now hold two new airdromes and a massive harbor—Big Seadler—less than 800 miles from Japan's key Pacific base at Truk and 1300 miles from the Philippine Islands.

Gen. MacArthur, reported today the enemy has been driven from Lorengau, main Japanese base in the Admiraltys.

Vanquished enemy troops in the Admiraltys face starvation or ultimate destruction, as most escape routes are cut off.

Fall of the Admiraltys puts additional terror in the hearts of Japanese defenders of Wewak, main Japanese air and supply base in northern New Guinea.

Already the Wewak defenders are getting tired of the war. For eight consecutive days, Allied planes have ripped and torn the base with 1200 tons of explosives. More than 200 tons went into the last reported raid and again, there was no air interception.

On the opposite end of Japan's Pacific defense line, Paramushiro in the northern Kurile Islands was bombed for the third consecutive day. Other Pacific planes pounded Ponape and Kusaie in the eastern Caroline Islands and three undesignated atolls in the eastern Marshalls.

Yanks for 8th Day Hit Reich War Factories

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—American bombers, carrying forward the nonstop Allied aerial offensive against Hitler's continental fortress, already battered by 20,000 tons of bombs in six days, struck targets in southest Germany today.

The attacking fleet, described officially as of medium size—probably 250 to 500 bombers—dumped American bombs on the Reich homeland for the fourth time in the six-day, awo-way offensive.

The British kept the stream of two-way atacks going last night.

Frim Italy night-flying RAF heavy and medium bombers hit the German-held shipbuilding base at Monfalcone, northwest of the Italian Adriatic port of Trieste, while from Britain Mosquitos blasted objectives in central and western Germany without loss.

BLAST REICH ON 2 SIDES

These raids followed up five strong punches landed on Germany and occupied territory Saturday and Sunday by American and British heavy bombers swinging in frfom both Italy and Britain.

Available figures indicated that possibly 300 German fighters were cut from Hitler's waning air strength in Saturday and Sunday attacks.

A total of 479 enemy aircraft had been shot down or destroyed during the week beginning last Monday in Allied operations from both Britain and Italy.

This total included 30 German fighters, which Allied Naples headquarters said were destroyed in raids into Austria yesterday, and two more destroyed by Mediterranean air forces elsewhere.

In two days 246 German aircraft had been destroyed in the Mediterranean theater, including a large number caught on the ground in Saturday raids on five Italian airfields.

YANKS ALSO HIT FRANCE

American Marauders attacked the Creil rail center north of Paris and other objectives in France early this morning with a Thunderbolt escort, it was learned authoritatively.

FIRING SQUAD PUTS PUCHEU TO DEATH

ALGIERS, March 20 (AP)—Pierre Pucheu, former Vichy interior minister, was executed today on treason charges of which he was convicted a week ago Saturday by a special French military court.

Pucheu died before a firing squad in a nearby military station, an announcement said.

The court two days ago had turned down the condemned man's appeal from the death sentence, which was imposed upon him as an exponent of collaboration with the Germans in his capacity of interior minister.

During the trial, Gen. Giraud, commander-in-chief of the French armed forces, came to Pucheu's aid, taking the stand as a defense witness and urging the case be postponed until France is liberated.

Specifically the five-man court headed by Judge Leon Verin convicted Pucheu of treason, malfeasance in office and collaboration with the enemy, but he was declared innocent of conspiracy to overthrow the Third Republic.

In a last impassioned protestation of innocence Pucheu had told the court that to condemn him to death would "plant the first stake in a civil war" in France and declared:

"This is not a court of justice; it is a political coup."

Plucked!

WITH THE U. S. NAVY IN BRITAIN, March 20 (AP)—Bombs often do strange things when they hit ships. The pet canary of a British warship was prettying herself in a cage when a terrific blast swept through the vessel.

Every feather on the bird was blown off and all she suffered was the shivers. Months later her shipmates were watching for new feathers. Meanwhile they kept her cage warmed to prevent her from catching cold.

Germans Yield In Italy Strike

NAPLES, March 20 (AP)—The Socialist newspaper Avanti declared today a strike of thousands of industrial workers in German-held northern Italy a week ago was "a victory in the frist truly great mass movement in Europe against Nazism."

Avanti declared the strike was "a success, not a platonic suspension of work, but a direct challenge to the Gestapo, a direct attack on the Nazi-Fascist war machine, and an armed fight which lasted for days."

Cochran Death Suspect Quizzed

MRS. MARY BELLE HANSON

CAPT. LOUIS DI SESSA QUIZZES JOHN L. WILSON
Charlestown Man Confesses Second Woman Slaying

Looper Given Cochran Quiz

Back into the life of 28-year-old John L. (Limey) Wilson, already an alleged confessor to two murders and implicated in a third, police of Boston and Lynn delved today in an attempt to link him with the fiendish sex-slaying of pretty Frances Cochran, Lynn bookkeeper, in July, 1941.

Exhibits and evidence in the case, even to impressions of teeth bites on the 19-year-old girl's body and photographed and moulaged, were brought to Boston by Lynn detectives, as Boston police resumed questioning Wilson.

The authorities also obtained a list of firms for which the Charlestown "looper" worked in his periods out of jail, including express companies.

MAY HAVE KNOWN FRANCES

One theory in the Cochran murder was that Frances may have become acquainted with her slayer during her work at the Lynn shoe plant where he called as an expressman.

Wilson, it was learned by the investigators, was released from Deer Island House of Correction on July 3, 1941, where he had served a sentence for car theft.

The pretty Cochran girl was slain July 17 and her body found in a Saugus lane three days later. And on the day the body was discovered following an anonymous telephone call by a man to a Salem radio station, Wilson went to New York, according to police, remaining six months.

ADMITS HANSON MURDER

When police began questioning the prisoner regarding the Cochran case, he closed up quickly, with the assertion that "you'll never pin the killing of that girl on me."

They pointed out, however, that at first he had been just as determined in his denial of implication in the South End sex slaying of Mrs. Mary Belle Hanson—and finally had blurted out a confession that he was her assailant.

Before that, on Saturday night, police announced his confession to the brutal murder of Mrs. Catherine McGinley, 85-year-old Charlestown widow.

ARRAIGNMENT PUT OVER

The third murder in which he implicated himself was that of Mrs. Alice Degnan Sheridan, 46, whose unclad and battered body was found wedged in a fence nearly two weeks ago at the rear of the same Edgeworth st., Charlestown, block in which Mrs. McGinley was killed in November, 1942.

Wilson was due for arraignment today in Charlestown court for the McGinley murder, but because of the sudden confession in the South End slaying, Police Capt. DiSessa of Charlestown put off his presentation until tomorrow.

Meanwhile, however, DiSessa went into court against Samuel L. Gilmore, 33, of Ferrin st., Charles-

Police Get Delay In Wife's Auto Death Hearing

Arraignment of Henry D. Vander Wyk, 50-year-old oil company executive, charged with manslaughter in connection with the mysterious auto death of his wife, was postponed today until April 5 at the request of Police Chief William Rogers of Winchester.

Rogers made the request of Judge William H. Henchey in Woburn District Court, explaining he wanted time to investigate the strange case and to study reports of State police experts.

Mrs. Rena M. Vander Wyk

Vander Wyk, poised and at ease, arrived in court with his counsel, Atty. Francis Leahy, more than an hour late. Leahy explained his car had stalled in a snowdrift and they had finished their trip from Winchester by train.

PRINT ON FENDER

Vander Wyk was freed under $15,000 bonds supplied by the Hartol Products Co. of New England, Revere, of which he is an executive.

Rogers said Vander Wyk's car is undergoing a thorough examination by State Police. Police charged the car was used in the death of Mrs. Rena Vander Wyk, 48, whose body was discovered Saturday afternoon near the driveway of their attractive home in High st., Winchester.

WITNESS TO TRAGEDY

Rogers disclosed that he had found a witness to the woman's death but declined to reveal the person's identity.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Albert F. Wunderly said Mrs. Vander Wyk lived two minutes after she was first struck and that the death car passed over her body twice.

The two distinct sets of injuries on the body of the woman were revealed in a preliminary autopsy report made by Dr. John M. Wilcox, medical examiner, and Dr. Walter Jetter, associate state pathologist, Wunderly said.

Vander Wyk, who was arrested in a Back Bay hotel barber shop a few hours after his wife's body was found, visited his home with his counsel, Atty. Francis Leahy, after being freed in $15,000 bail for today's court appearance.

Meanwhile, after the autopsy which revealed his wife had been run over twice, Mrs. Vander Wyk's body was removed to the Kelley and Hawes funeral home, Winchester, where private funeral services will be conducted tomorrow.

Wunderly said the first set of injuries on the body of the 48-year-old Mrs. Vander Wyk were caused by the wheels of an automobile passing over her chest, crushing the heart and causing death within two minutes afterward.

After she died, Wunderly said, the automobile wheels passed over her legs, almost severing the left foot, and causing a second complete set of injuries.

Looper's Wife Hurls Wedding Ring Away

By ALICE BISSELL

A 21-year-old Charlestown mother today tore her gold wedding ring off her finger, opened the window of her second-floor apartment, and threw it down in the snow-steeped alley.

"That's the last I hope to see of it," said Mrs. Marion Wilson, wife of John L. "Limey" Wilson, 28, alleged confessor of two fiendish murders.

"I have no pity on him, I will not do anything in his behalf, and if they are discussing the Cochran murder, I wouldn't put it beyond him, although nothing was ever mentioned in our house about the case."

The young mother was in the midst of bathing her 4-month-old daughter, Marion, when she suddenly took off the wedding ring.

Beside her on the table at her home, Edgeworth st., Charlestown, was a stack of newspapers.

"I am learning for the first time about my husband from the newspapers," she said, and she has been married to him since April 10, 1943.

"I never loved him, but I went around with him for a year and finally we got married. We never talked of parting, because of the baby.

"We only had one argument and that was about drink. Often he'd stay out all night drinking, and he had 11 different jobs in one year of married life.

"My mother died when I was a little girl. Thank goodness, she is not alive to see this. My brother, Pvt. Edward Hamilton, is with the Army Engineers in England, and my father, Edward, works at the Navy Yard.

"Neither my father nor brother liked Wilson, but my father has been good enough to let him live here, and my father has given me money when my husband was out of work."

"The night Mrs. McGinley was murdered, he met me at the bus and told me about it. I thought it was terrible. I knew her slightly. He took me to supper and made me forget my horror. He was pleasant and gay.

"The other day when the body of Mrs. Sheridan was wedged in this alley where my wedding ring is now, I was washing the baby's clothes and pulling them in and out over a line right over the body. But I didn't notice it.

"He came in that night and had supper and spent the evening playing with the baby. He nicknamed her 'Snooky.'"

"He loved that baby, and when she was born at City Hospital he visited me several times a day."

Mrs. Wilson said she was thankful that her baby was so young, and that the Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde existence of her husband had been discovered now.

"This house gives me the creeps. I spent all day yesterday looking for a new place for my father and me to live. Some place in Charlestown where we can try to forget this terrible thing.

"I never noticed that he smoked dope cigarettes. And I never suspected he was mixed up in any crime. I only knew I didn't love him and that most people hated him."

Mrs. Wilson said she felt numb from shock, and had only one thought—and that was that she wasn't going to let this tragedy ruin the life of his child.

She said she was not acquainted with Wilson in 1941 at the time of the Cochran murder and that she knew nothing of his whereabouts at the time.

Fr. Walsh Says Russia Seeking To Exploit War

Asserting Soviet Russia was "attempting to profit by the present world tragedy," and promote Communism under cover of confusion, the Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., director of the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, went on record today demanding Russia's aims be officially "exposed and condemned."

Russia's magnificent resistance to an unprovoked invasion we salute and have supported to the very limit of possibility, as the report of lend-lease operations amply confirms," he told the League of Catholic Women at the Statler Hotel.

"Her concomitant attempt to profit by the present world tragedy and under cover of confusion incident to global warfare to seek first to nullify her plighted word, then plan to expand a way of life hostile to Christianity and democracy should be exposed and condemned."

Fr. Walsh added that while Russia is fighting the common enemy in the Nazis, she is "not guaranteeing nor underwriting the common objectives of the other United Nations."

He charged the "present egocentric and illiberal policy" of Russia was a determination to create a Pan Slavic confederation of Communism and that the Soviets were using "the new prestige borrowed from the purely military achievements of the Red Army" toward this end.

Speaking of the military picture, he declared that "the only direction from which Russia is menaced seriously is the only area in which she has taken no vigorous aggressive steps, Japan."

REDS MAY EASE TERMS TO FINLAND

By STEN HEDMAN

STOCKHOLM, March 20 (INS) —An official softening of Russia's peace terms to Finland, embodying stipulations now known as "the Stockholm modifications" and containing proposals believed much much more acceptable to Helsinki was believed forthcoming today.

Prominent Russian quarters in Stockholm declared Marshal Stalin is expected to advise Finland in the immediate future that these modifications have ::the full approval of Moscow."

The two most important of the modified terms are:

First—A stipulation that Finnish forces need not retire to the 1940 frontier before the complete peace negotiations are ended, and,

Secondly—A softening of the demand concerning the internment of the six or eight German divisions in Finland.

Finland today is sobered by a blunt warning from Field Marshal Von Mannerheim that it would be "militarily impossible" to hold if the Soviets open a full-scale offensive.

'Big Bill' Thompson Dies in 75th Year

CHICAGO, March 20 (AP)—William Hale Thompson, who in his ten gallon hat and with his slogan "Punch King George in the Snoot," was one of the most colorful mayors in a city which has a tradition of colorful politics, was dead today at the age of 75.

He had been under an oxygen tent for 24 hours following a severe heart attack the previous Thursday. His sister, Mrs. William Nelson Pelouse, and a brother, Gale, were at his bedside when he succumbed. His wife, Mrs. Mary Wyse Thompson, had left a short time before after a long vigil.

Thompson—"Big Bill"—served three terms as chief executive of Chicago, from 1915 to 1923 and from 1927 to 1931. They were turbulent years, productive of headlines throughout the world, charges of graft and corruption at home and countercharges by Thompson himself of "lies."

In 1927 he contended the public school textbooks were filled with British propaganda and adopted his bellicose slogan regarding nose-punching.

He was born in Boston, May 14, 1869, and was brought to Chicago while still an infant. Here his father, William Hale, Sr., founded a real estate business that ultimately enabled the son to participate freely in yachting as well as politics.

Some of the guests had appeared at windows, apparently prepared to jump, but had been warned by servicemen and others

Girl Freed in Kidnaping to Wed

EDITH TOY

CROYDON, Pa., March 20 (AP)—Boston-born, 22-year-old Edith Toy awaited freedom—and marriage—today, apparently cleared of a kidnaping charge in the disappearance of Charlotte Susan Garon, 4, from her Bucks County home.

"Maybe I'll get married after all," the former WAVE said smiling after Anthony Russo, chief of county detectives, said the charge would be withdrawn because "this is no case of kidnaping at all."

Miss Toy was arrested Saturday at Camden, N. J., after the little girl was found in her custody, and was to have been arraigned today.

She wouldn't talk about her intended husband except to say, "he's a sailor"—like little Charlotte's father—"and I've known him for six years."

Russo said Miss Toy took Charlotte for "a little visit" with full permission of the child's mother, Mrs. Sofia Garon, 28, who had met Miss Toy on a train but didn't know her name.

"We also learned," Russo said, "that Miss Toy told her Camden neighbors she had the child, showed it to several of them and even said she planned to buy her a new outfit before taking her home."

Charlotte had been away from home since Wednesday.

Record Boston Snowfall As Storm Blankets N. E.

In furious mimiccry of Old Man Winter's ill-tempered, last-minute effort to work up a snowstorm, spring swept into New England today like a frosty virago and pelted the public with a probable record-maker for the date, with three deaths as the consequence.

SECOND SON BORN—Cletus Caldwell, former model now the wife of Comedian Ken Murray, became the mother of an 8½-pound boy, her second son, in Hollywood. The Murrays have named the new arrival Cort Riley.

Two Roxbury men and a Milford shoeworker died after struggling through deep snow. The storm was New England-wide.

Weather bureau officials predicted the storm would wear itself out tonight but not before a 10-inch snowfall in Boston, three inches deeper than the record for a March 20. Spring, on schedule for its arrival at 1:49 p. m., gave Bostonians a thorough lashing, slowing down bus and motor travel, beleaguring pedestrians and taxing snow removal equipment.

THREE DEATHS

Dead were:

Andrew Malloy, 62, Columbus ave., Roxbury, who collapsed in the snow near his home and died while being taken to City Hospital.

A man tentatively identified throdgh papers in his pocket as Roger Danahy, about 65, of Eustis st., Roxbury, who fell unconscious at Randall and Albany sts. and was pronounced dead at City Hospital.

Felice de Ceasara, 60, of Milford, who struggled a quarter-mile through deep snow to his work ata a shoe factory there, then died at his bench.

All Massachusetts state highways were kept open, according to James E. Lawrence, maintenance engineer of the public works department. By dawn approximately 400 snow removal units were battling the storm. More than 1000 men were thrown into the fight, and reserves were notified to be ready in case the storm did not abate tonight, as predicted.

Indications the snowfall would break all records for the date in Boston were seen as early as 10 a. m., when the weather bureau reported seven inches. This was only an inch less than the record established in 1906 and equalled in 1920.

E. Mark Nesbitt, associate government meteorologist, predicted a 10-inch fall in Boston before the storm spends itself tonight.

Boston's most severe spring snowstorm of record, he said, was a two-day visitation which began April 2, 1887, and banked the city under 11 inches.

The Berkshires were more heavily hit than the cities. Deep drifts confronted state highway squads. Pittsfield was under seven inches by midmorning. Five-inch falls were reported by Hartford and New Haven, Ct., Portland, Me., and Providence.

Subfreezing weather prevailed throughout New England, with Bangor, Me., and Burlington, Vt., each reporting 16 degrees. Boston's lowest was 22.

SPRING IN BOSTON—Kathryn Baptiste of Vineyard Haven landed in a snowdrift as she made her way across Boston Common this first day of spring. Like many another commuter, Kathryn found the going very treacherous and had plenty of company in slipping and falling.

Snow Helps!

The only public official to have a good word for today's snow storm was Acting Comr. of Agriculture Louis A. Webster —who said it was a fine thing indeed.

"In fact," he added, "it will be invaluable to farmers. Snow flakes gather nitrogen from the air as they fall. When the ground is open, a late March snowfall is truly 'the poor man's feltilizer.' It usually means fine crops and is a good omen for the Victory Gardeners."

3 Malden Firemen Hurled From Truck

Two out of three Malden firemen flung today from Engine 1 in a skid at Main and Exchange sts. were saved from injury by landing in snowplow-drifts, but the third suffered cuts and a shaking up when he came down on the plowed part of the pavement.

Fireman Cornelius Mahoney was taken to Malden Hospital, while the rest of the crew continued on with the apparatus to the six-story Dowling Building in Malden sq.

Here a fire had started in waste oil in the boiler room, but the walled-off room is fireproof and the blaze could not spread into the upper building, the first floor of which is occupied as a department store.

6 Driven Out In Newton Fire

Fire of undetermined origin in a two-family dwelling in Edinboro st., Newtonville, today drove six persons scantily clad to the street and caused damage estimated at $1700.

Mrs. Daisy Wilson, a neighbor, discovered the fire as she prepared to leave home for her war plant job. She sent her son, Merton, 18, to rouse the occupants.

Those who fled were Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DeSimone, first-floor tenants; James Themelis and his children, Mary, 16; Natalie, 14, and Nicholas, 13. All were uninjured.

Deer Isle Prisoners Fight Pier Fire

Hundreds of prisoners joined with fire boats and apparatus from East Boston and Winthrop today in battling a blaze on the municipal pier at Deer Island at the height of the storm this morning.

All apparatus at the island, prisoners and guards joined in battling the spectacular flames, which threatened to destroy the pier and several storehouses and buildings on it.

The pier is used as dock for the City Steamer Michael Perkins, which transports prisoners to and from the island. City jail buildings are about a quarter of a mile from the pier.

N. J. BUS PLUNGES INTO RIVER

PASSAIC, N. J., March 20 (AP)—A bus plunged from a bridge into the Passaic river during a sleet storm today and seven rescued occupants estimated that 15 to 30 other persons were inside the submerged vehicle.

Employes of a Riverside factory making life rafts for the war effortt ossed finished rafts out windows and into the stream to facilitate rescue work,w hile Nicholas Mulick of Wallington, a fellow worker,d dove into the icy water and helped three survivors ashore.

Those saved were assisted from an emergency door.

Port of New York authorities started a derrick barge to the scene in an effort to raise the bus.

The bus had traveled the length of Passaic and was bound for Wallington and Wood-Ridge, site of a huge airplane engine plant.

The bus skidded on the bridge and ripped down about 30 feet of guard rail before it dropped into the channel, recently deepened for tugboat traffic.

First identified victim of the accident was a pedestrian knocked from the bridge into the river. One of the seven saved was Leroy W. Thomas, general foreman of the United States Rubber Co. plant, whose employes played major roles in the rescue work.

Cat Gives Alarm, 11 Saved in Fire

Eleven persons, including four babies, escaped unharmed today when fire swept a two-family house in Warren st., Waltham, after a pet cat aroused one of the occupants, who warned the others of the danger.

Anthony Giordano, 27, sleeping on the second floor, was awakened when his cat leaped on his bed and clawed at the bedclothes to warn him. He discovered the kitchen aflame.

Giordano roused his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Santo Giordano, his brother-in-laf and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Isalaco and their two children, Gertrude, 3, and Cosmos, 8 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Simonetti, first floor occupants, carried their children, Carolyn, 2, and Jeanne, 2 months, to safety.

Damage was esticated at $1000 and the cause was undetermined.

NEW JUDGE AS LONERGAN TRIAL STARTS

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Trial of Wayne Lonergan for the bludgeon-slaying of his wife, Patricia, 23-year-old heiress, started again today with a new judge on the bench and a fresh panel of 300 special talesmen jammed into the small general sessions courtroom.

Judge John J. Freschi, who presided at the stormy first session which ended Feb. 25, had expressed hope he would not have to serve again and the trial was resumed before Judge James Garrett Wallace.

The 26-year-old defendant was described by his attorney, Edward V. Broderick, as being in "pretty good spirits" and eager for the trial to get under way.

Broderick visited his client for two hours yesterday in Tombs Prison. Lonergan also was interviewed by Dr. Thomas S. Cusack, a psychiatrist, at the defense counsel's request.

As he left the prison, Dr. Cusack said his examination had not been completed. He said he would visit the prisoner again today or tomorrow.

The first attempt to put Lonergan on trial last month ended after five days' proceedings with dismissal of the jury panel and institution of contempt of court charges against Broderick. The latter action will be heard April 14.

Jailed in Theft From Sailor

Even forcing one sailor to be one day late at his ship interferes with the progress of the war, Judge Fay in Lynn court told Patrick Birmingham, 60, today in sentencing him for the alleged theft of a Merchant Marine sailor's suitcase.

Birmingham, whose home is in Washington st., Lynn, was charged with stealing the clothing-filled suitcase of Augustus Shattuck in a Washington st. tavern last Friday.

Shattuck, who had been visiting friends in Lynn, was on his way to report back to his ship Saturday, but because of the theft and Birmingham's arrest was compelled to remain until today.

The court gave Birmingham one year in the House of Correction for the larceny and six months for drunkenness, to be served concurrently.

Flat Gift Deduction In New Tax Scored

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP)—Acclaimed generally on Capitol Hill as the small taxpayers' dream come true, a plan to boil down the income tax laws was assailed by Rep. Curtis (R.) of Nebraska, today as containing "an unfair and immoral" provision.

Curtis, a member of the special House Republican committee on taxes, voiced the first dissident words since the ways and means committee made the plan public last week. He said he heartily approved the objective of freeing some 30,000,000 taxpayers from having to wrestle with another income tax report.

But he roundly denounced a provision allowing every taxpayer a deduction of 10 per cent of income subject to withholding taxes to offset usual allowances for contributions to religious, charitable and similar organizations.

"It allows everyone this 10 per cent deduction whether they make a contribution or not," he complained. "I object to a proposal which gives the individual who contributes nothing to charity a deduction as a matter of right."

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, ranking Republican on the tax-framing finance committee, spoke enthusiastically of the House committee proposal, as did Sen. Millikin (R.) of Colorado, a member of the same committee.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau hailed the new proposal as "well conceived and intelligently planned" and predicted it would be "a great boon to the country."

Chairman George (D.) of Georgia of the Senate finance committee said he believed the simplification legislation would be passed and sent to the White House before Congress recesses for the political conventions this summer.

Henry Ford Predicts War To Last But 2 Months More

ATLANTA, March 20 (AP)—Henry Ford says he believes the war will be over in two months. In a copyrighter interview for the Atlanta Constitution he also predicted the eventual abandonment of railroads.

Asked his reason for his prediction on the war's end, he said:

"No reason for believing it."

Then he grinned and added:

"I can't tell my reasons. I have them, of course. That's all I care to say on the subject."

Asked what he considered the greatest single post-war problem, Ford said:

"Go to work. That's the answer to everything. Laziness and idleness are the cause of all the world's troubles. By idleness I mean idle land as well as idle people. There are millions of idle acres in the world. The way I see it, greeds, creeds and boundary lines must go.

For young people the pioneer automobile manufacturer said:

"My message to young people, those in uniform and those out of uniform, is simply this: Find out the cause of war. That will stop war quicker than anything I know of. I could tell them, but it doesn't seem to work that way, somehow. They must find out for themselves. I am sure they will find out. Then wars will end for all time."

He described his Boston visit as "interesting," adding that "because I'm new, I thought they might want to see what I looked like."

BULK OF STATES WOULD HANDLE SERVICE VOTE

WASHINGTON, March 20 (AP) —Forty-two governors have replied to President Roosevelt's query about service voting and the trend of their opinion appears to be that state ballots distributed under the federal machinery would give a vote to most service men and women.

Virtually all the governors emphasized that their states want the fighting forces to vote. Many expressed the belief that state ballot provisions are adequate if the government will undertake to get those ballots overseas.

Mr. Roosevelt had inquired whether the states would accept federal ballots from the armed forces. Six governors replied affirmatively, for the states of California, Maryland, North Carolina, Florida, Alabama and Kansas.

The governors of 13 states said no legislative action is planned to validate federal ballots even if the President signs the bill and indicated state legislation would meet the service vote problem. These states were Iowa, Idaho, Illinois, Georgia, Virginia, Mississippi, West Virginia, Arizona, Wisconsin, Colorado, Minnesota, Ohio and Montana.

Many governors were non-committal and the White House said no replies had been received from South Carolina, Tennessee, Michigan, Texas, Wyoming or Oregon.

President Roosevelt has left no doubt that his decision either to accept or veto the federal ballot measure would hinge on the question of whether more service personnel would vote under it than under the 1942 law which merely waived state registration and poll tax requirements, leaving absentee balloting entirely to the states.

"I WAS CONSTIPATED FOR MANY YEARS!

Now I'm 'Regular' Every Morning!"

Constipated? Then here's an unsolicited letter you'll want to read: "I'd been troubled with common constipation for many years. Was taking laxatives and pills all the time, and feeling very weak and run down. 3 months ago, I began eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. Now, I have a regular, natural movement every morning, which helps me feel my best!" Mr. Samuel D. Blank, 292 Kings Highway, Brooklyn, New York.

What is this seeming magic of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN? Scientists say it's because KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation — namely, lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements, which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out." It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find lasting relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Senate Set for Omnibus Bill

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 20—After completion of an anticipated brief debate on the appropriations bill, the Senate todaywas scheduled to take up the "G-I" omnibus bill, which, with its 81 senatorial sponsors, seems assured of immediate passage.

American Legion officials, warning that more hospital facilities for wounded servicemen will be needed shortly in increased numbers, expressed hope that the omnibus bill would become law by Friday night.

Cong. John E. Rankin of Mississippi, chairman of the House committee on World War veterans' legislation, has stated his committee will take the Senate bill and report it out in order to save time and argument. The measure should reach the House floor by Thursday at the latest and will go on the calendar right behind the agricultural bill, which should be cleaned up Thursday or early Friday. In consequence, the omnibus bill should be on the way to the President Friday night for signature.

In the meantime Robert H. Sisson, national rehabilitation officer of the Legion, urged all relatives and friends of servicemen and women to write or telegraph their House representatives immediately demanding speedy action.

A number of House members have swung into action to speed the bill on its way, including Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, and Cong. Thomas D'Alesandro, dean of the Maryland delegation. Another Massachusetts Representative who is working for the swift passage of the measure is Cong. Angier L. Goodwin of Melrose.

Q—My husband has been confined to a naval hospital with a chronic case of arthritis of the spine. He is now 40 years of age and would like to get a discharge. Is he eligible for a release and mustering-out pay? What procedure should he follow? E. J., Providence.

A—Naval authorities advise that your husband may receive a medical discharge if his condition is as serious as you stated in letters. However, he is entitled to request a discharge, and officials believe it would be for medical reasons. If that is true he would be entitled to mustering-out benefit. Your husband should talk his case over with one of the commanding officers at the hospital.

Q—I was discharged Nov., 1941, on a "certified disability discharge" and would like to know whether I am entitled to mustering-out benefits? H. C., Randolph.

A—Sorry, but no discharge benefit payments. Bill effective only to those in active service after Dec. 7, 1941.

Q—I served six months in the Navy assigned to an aircraft carrier. When I overstayed my leave I was given a B. C. (Bar Conduct) discharge. Am I entitled to mustering-out pay? A. J. D., Stoughton.

A—Your type discharge prevents you from receiving the mustering-out benefit. However, if Congress passes present so-called "G. I. Bill of Rights," you may appeal type of discharge received if you think you were not treated fairly.

Q—I have been informed that veterans will receive $50 monthly if the Ommbus Bill is passed we for a 12-month period. Is that correct? J. M., Roxbury.

A—If Congress passes bill, veterans are entitled to one years' benefits of Unemployment Compensation, providing they are unable to work or find jobs. Amount depends on civilian job status.

Murder

Wilson has allegedly confessed he helped Gilmore move the body of Mrs. Sheridan from the Charlestown cellar.

Gilmore waived examination before Judge Charles S. Sullivan, pleaded not guilty to the murder charge and was held without bail for this month's sitting of Suffolk County grand jury.

Capt. DiSessa briefly went through Gilmore's alleged confession to taking the woman into the cellar March 6, throttling and striking her, stripping the body and hiding it beneath a stairway, and then moving ti out of the cellar two days later.

In court was John McGinley, son of the aged widow to whose murder Wilson has confessed, and McGinley evidently had expected to see Wilson present also.

Approaching a court offiser, McGinley asked:

"Where's that other rat?"

Then he started to walk toward Gilmore in the dock, but the court officer called him back by name. He returned and then went out of the courtroom with the officer, tears rolling down his cheeks.

A short time later the Gilmore proceedings were over and he was removed to Charles st. jail to await grand jury action.

Upon Capt. DiSessa's completion of his court appearance he returned to the station and again took charge of the questioning of Wilson in connection with the Cochran slaying.

During the lapse, police had visited Wilson's home and seized 15 murder mystery novels in the paper-backed 25-cent editions.

On their way to Boston from Lynn at that time were Inspectors Joseph M. Gannon and Frank R. Lawler of the Lynn department, with evidence in the Cochran case and pictures of the body and the murder scene.

Other detectives had started the task of visiting various plants in and around Lynn, including the plant where Frances Cochran worked, to see if bosses or employes could identify Wilson, from photographs, as a man who ever had called there as an expressman.

Because of his claim he was working for the Savannah Steamship Co. in July, 1941, records of that company will be checked.

TRIES TO BURN BODIES

Detectives pointed out that the McGinley and Cochran murders were both sadistic slayings; that attempts were made to burn both bodies, and that violences in both deaths were markedly similar.

Wilson, an admitted addict of marijuana cigarettes who has a record as an auto thief, denied any knowledge of the Cochran girl's death. In the midst of questioning about his whereabouts on July 17, 1941—the night of the Cochran murder—Wilson suddenly said he murdered Mrs. Hanson.

His nerves obviously cracking from lack of "reefers," and begging his questioners for one more hopped-up smoke, Wilson, when shown a picture of Mrs. Hanson, said:

"That's the woman I killed. That's the woman I had with me in the Roosevelt Cafe."

Earlier he had admitted he was a drinking companion of Mrs. Hanson, 49, on the night she met her death, but he then had denied he killed her. He said he left the cafe with her, another man and her dog, but that he suddenly decided to leave them and return to the cafe.

Police called in three of the cafe waitresses, Miss Marcella P. Egan of Maywood st., Roxbury; Miss Lillian Parece of E st., South Boston, and Miss Jessie Nichols of Fallon st., Back Bay. All identified Wilson as a customer there on the death night.

Then, when he changed his story and admitted all, he told a weird but exceptionally well detailed story of the South End woman's death.

Gracie Fields, War Hero Aid Red Cross

Gracie Fields, noted British entertainer, and Lieut.-Col. Harry Pratt, for more than two years commanding officer of Headquarters Hospital, London, today paid high praise to Red Cross workers in foreign hospitals, at the final report luncheon of the 1944 Red Cross War Fund at Boston City Club.

The Boston Metropolitan Chapter's quota in the drive, scheduled to close Wednesday night, is $3,367,000, and fund officials urged thousands who have not yet been solicited to act at once in sending or bringing their contributions to War Fund Headquarters, 10 Post Office sq.

TELLS OF SICILY

Miss Fields, who has entertained thousands of troops at military camps and hospitals, told of tense hours at one hospital in Sicily when desperately needed blood plasma and other medical supplies failed to arrive.

"It was heartbreaking to watch the doctors and nurses hoard the dwindling supplies, fearful that the time would come when nothing more could be done to save the lives of our boys in that crowded hospital," she said. "But the ship did come—in time—just as you people of Boston must finish this drive successfully, and in time."

Col. Pratt, who served through the blitz in London, told how Red Cross workers worked in 24-hour shifts to aid the wounded. "Their presence and calmness were an inspiration to all," he added.

RAISE QUOTA

From Nelson, N. H., came a report about how residents in that town of less than 200 persons literally cut their way through to the town's Red Cross quota. Men, women and children volunteers took axes to the woodlands of Mrs. Rolfe Floyd, drive chairman, and worked all day to cut and stack 14 cords of wood that netted the Red Cross $140, to put the town over the top of its $200 goal.

Mission High Picks Oratory Contestant

Latest entry to win over his schoolmates to step another notch further toward the glittering war bond prizes to be awarded in the thrilling John Paul Jones contest is Joseph F. Devlin, of Mission High School for Boys, Roxbury.

Joseph, 15, is the son of Mrs. Catherine E. Devlin of Parker st., Roxbury, and his victory in his school's preliminary competition honoring America's great naval hero, places him in the Boston elimination contest, which will be held in Faneuil Hall on March 31.

Only a few days remain now for the names of college and high school — parochial and public — student entrants in the nation-wide John Paul Jones oratory contest, to be submitted to the Contest Editor of the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser. The deadline is next Friday, March 24, and the elimination contest will be held one week later.

He is a graduate of Boston English High School, Boston College and Harvard Law School, is a World War veteran and president of the Catholic Alumni Sodality.

Orations of the students selected for the elimination contest will be focused on any phase of the colorful life and achievements of America's great commodore, whose heroism stands out as a torch of courage to our gallant Navy today.

Judge Quashes Cult Charges

DENVER, March 20 (AP)—Federal District Judge J. Foster Symes said that he had quashed a federal indictment brought in the federal court at Salt Lake City against several members of the "Fundamentalist" cult.

He declined to disclose details of his ruling or to say what defendants were affected by it. He said the ruling would be announced in Federal Court at Salt Lake City today.

Twelve persons, said by U. S. Dist. Atty. John S. Boyden to be leaders of the cult, were indicted on a charge of conspiring to circulate "obscene, lewd, lascivious, indecent and immoral" writings through the mail.

Garden on Common To Guide Growers

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head, Market Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser demonstration garden on Boston Common.)

With deep realization of the vital part home gardening will play in the nation's economic front this year, national, state and town committees already have made plans to get the 1944 Victory Garden program under way.

Goals have been announced and contacts have been made with seed and fertilizer houses to obtain supplies.

The Boston Record-American-Sunday Advertiser realizes that the production of food from Victory Gardens is more essential this year than ever before. It is not only valuable because of the food produced, but will be a big factor in helping to solve the transportation and labor shortage problems.

With this in mind, these papers are again sponsoring a demonstration plot on Boston Common to serve as an educational unit along with daily and Sunday articles in the papers.

In checking last year's results we find that as a whole the program was a success. About 20,000,000 gardeners produced 8,000,000 tons of vegetables, as compared to 10,000,000 produced by commercial growers. Our goal this year is to have 22,000,000 gardens and produce 10,000,000 tons of vegetables.

In going back over last year's program there are several factors that will help us attain the 1944 goal:

1—Many gardens were planted without any early planning. This caused a general waste of space, low yields per square foot of land, over-production of some crops and waste of seeds and other materials because of poor judgment as to amounts needed.

2—Land was not used throughout the season. This creates a waste of fertilizer and labor, lowers production and encourages weed growth.

3—There was not enough succession cropping.

Watch for next article on buying seeds.

BACK FROM HELL . . By Burris Jenkins, Jr.

"THE EXPLOSION COMES BEHIND HIM—A JAP GRENADE"
MARINE CPL. DAN SWARTS OF JERSEY CITY—
HE RODE A BUFFALO ONTO TARAWA..
"JAP BULLETS SPLASH CLOSE AS DAN DRAGS HIS PAL FROM THE CAB AND ACROSS THE CORAL REEFS..."
"RUNNING IN HUGE STRIDES, SWARTS SEES ONLY ONE OF THE OTHER TWO VOLUNTEERS GO DOWN BEFORE HE HITS THE BEACH AGAIN..."
"THE LIEUTENANT EMPTIES A GARAND HELD AT ARMS LENGTH OVER HIS HEAD INTO THE SLIT OF THE JAP MACHINE GUN NEST..."
BURRIS JENKINS JR.

Marine Corp. Swarts sees him hunch over the wheel as a Jap machine gun pounds the side of the "buffalo" at the water line and pours four hot rivets into the driver's right leg between the ankle and knee, and several deep gouges in the left.

The amphibious tank slows and stops in the shallow water, the motor still running.

The 11 Marine "passengers" on the "buffalo"—part of a mortar squad—start to climb out when a Jap mortar shell explodes in the stern igniting the gas tanks and everybody—including Dan Swarts of Jersey City—goes up in the air to land in the water. Everybody, that is, but Wayne Clay, the driver.

"Wayne!" Swarts yells, "get movin'!"

But Clay can't move from the cab and as the rest scramble for the protection of a fortified enemy machinegun emplacement projecting out from the beach, Swarts turns back for his pal.

Swarts is a big target in those days—218 pounds in football clothes—but Jap bullets only splash close as he pulls Clay over the armored windshield and drags him 50 yards across the coral reefs to where the others, still hip-deep in water, hug the palm logs of the emplacement.

Only Four of Eleven Left Alive, Unhurt

By the time Swarts and Clay reach the spot—hands, knees and trousers shredded by the sharp coral—only four, of the 11 men and three members of the "buffalo's" crew, are alive or unwounded.

The lieutenant is leaning with his back against the emplacement, emptying a Garand rifle held at arms length backward over his head into the single slit opening of the Jap machine gun nest above them. The Japs have managed to drop grenades down with telling effect until the lieutenant stops them with his Garand. Still they somehow get replacements behind their gun

Corp Swarts has no way to fight back. Stripped of all weapons when the "buffalo" blew up, except his Marine Corps issue knife attached to a cartridge belt with his canteen, Swarts has to stand there and take it for an hour and a half.

With all the blood and death around them, the stink of the nearby Jap latrine jutting into the water is sickeningly unbearable. After a while they can stand it no longer.

Those able to move make a break for the beach 15 yards to the left over to the partial protection of the Jap latrine.

"I want three volunteers," the lieutenant yells, "to go for that machine gun on the wall!"

Swarts steps forward with two others.

For one thing, he wants to get his hands on a weapon. They give the men Garands and they circle the latrine to the left and throw themselves on the sand in the shallow water and start crawling up toward the small Jap emplacement on the wall. They draw a bead on the Japs and pull the triggers. . . .

Not a gun fires!

In splashing through the sand and salt water the mechanisms have fouled.

Cautiously they inch backward into the water.

Bay Crawling With Small Craft

From the corner of his eye Swarts can see the bay crawling with small craft, trying to get into the beach and beyond the transports and warships from which only five hours ago Swarts' "buffalo" had been launched with Wayne Clay at the wheel . . .

There was nothing to worry about then but to keep the engine running.

It was only passing between the concrete block markers that the crew of his "buffalo"—including, besides Swarts and Clay, the crew chief and 50-calibre machine gunner forward, and the lieutenant platoon leader—realize with sudden terror that Japs are still alive on Tarawa Atoll and that their guns and mortars are fixed in cross-fire between the markers as air and water around them sing with flying death.

Still it's not until the third trip in to unload men on Betio Beach to the right of the long pier that Clay gets hit and the "buffalo" founders to leave them fighting for their lives.

Returning safely to the lieutenant, the same three volunteers offer to risk another mission, this time to the right, where a few Marines have carried a machine gun as far as the seawall.

Running in huge strides through the water—this time with no weapons but one .45 pistol among them—Swarts and the other two reach the small group of Marines under the wall. Only one of them is alive and unwounded. A man on the ground asks for a cigaret.

"I'll light it for you," says the unwounded Marine.

"No!" gasps the boy on the ground. "No time—for that! Give me yours . . ."

He takes one puff. The smoke comes out through a hole in his chest. He takes another drag and dies . . .

"Are you a corporal?" the remaining Marine asks Swarts.

"Yeh."

"Well, tell your commanding officer, platoon —— has been wiped out" . . . and the boy lights himself another cigarette.

Carrying the 30-caliber without the tripod, the belt of ammo over his shoulder, Swarts starts back, leaping through the water with bullets (Clay tells him afterward) "taking the heels off his shoes."

One of the other volunteers is in front of him and Swarts sees him go down suddenly just before they reach the other part of the beach. He doesn't see the third one fall behind him. Swarts is the only man to get back to the lieutenant and the small band of Marines . . .

They set up the 30-caliber, but by now the small Jap emplacement on the wall has been knocked out by an anti-tank grenade so the lieutenant trains the gun on the trees over the seawall, waiting for darkness . . .

Snipers and Guns Try to Feel Them Out

Up till now, as far as Swarts knows, nobody has been over the wall on that side of the beach.

After dark, his group manages to reach the seawall where only snipers and occasional bigger guns try to feel them out.

It is almost midnight when they hear the tracks of a "buffalo" scrape on the beach. With the others, Swarts runs down the few yards to help them unload and carry the wounded aboard for return to the transport.

Swarts has taken an armload of supplies and weapons up to the seawall. He has placed them on the wall and, as a man will, turns his back to sit down on the wall when this explosion comes behind him and Dan Swarts doesn't know what happens next.

He doesn't know that all the clothes are blown off his back in the blast from what must have been a Jap grenade and that somebody drags him down to the beach to place him on the amphibious tank with his pal Clay.

Dan wakes about six hours later. He looks up to see he is in the sickbay of a ship. He looks at the face of the man in the next bunk just as Wayne Clay beside him opens his eyes.

"How the hell'd you get here!" they said simultaneously and laugh.

Both are in a good deal of pain, Dan from an aching head (that still bothers him occasionally) and they fall asleep. Next day they take Clay to a hospital ship, but Dan reaches Hawaii only two days after Wayne who has been spreading the story of how Dan saved his life. Both get their Purple Hearts there, and reach the States about the same time.

On the West Coast they separate for the duration. Clay still is in the San Diego hospital and Swarts the other day was returned to active duty.

If Clay lost a leg in that Tarawa action, he's never written a line of it to Swarts.

Anyway, Dan figures there's still enough fight left in him for the two of them.

A National Problem

THE JAPANESE COLONIZATION PROBLEM is moving swiftly and inexorably to a crisis in the United States.

It has come to a head in Delaware where mass meetings of citizens have denounced the importation of Japanese farm workers released from segregation centers by the War Relocation Authority.

It is coming to a head in Colorado where the release of Japanese from relocation centers has raised the menace of Japanese domination in the most fertile agricultural regions of the State.

It has reached its most serious proportions in California, where more than five hundred evacuated Japanese have already been returned to a region from which all Japanese were originally removed for reasons of NATIONAL SECURITY.

The most DANGEROUS situation created by the problem of returning Japanese unquestionably exists in California and other West Coast States.

The considerations of national security, which caused and justified and compelled the removal of the Japanese in the first place, still prevail and are still paramount.

We are still at war with Japan.

There is a continuing danger, according to military authorities, that the armed forces of Japan might attack and raid the West Coast.

THAT WAS the dangerous probability that persuaded and commanded the War Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation to evacuate the more than one hundred thousand Japanese from the West Coast.

These authorities honestly knew and frankly acknowledged that they could not determine which Japanese were loyal and which were disloyal.

They could not afford to take a chance, and especially could not afford to make a MISTAKE.

So they wisely and properly and promptly evacuated ALL of the Japanese.

The only alternative would have been to employ substantial military and investigative forces to police and watch the Japanese permitted to remain, and thus divert substantial manpower and equipment from the war itself.

The War Department and the Bureau of Investigation very soundly rejected this alternative.

But now the War Relocation Authority has given them no choice in the matter.

It is steadily releasing Japanese from the relocation centers, in spite of the fact that a means of distinguishing the loyal from the disloyal still does not exist.

It is distributing the released Japanese to Delaware and Colorado and other States where they are not wanted and are resented.

It is returning hundreds of them to California, and compelling the Army and the Bureau of Investigation to assume the responsibility and burden of preventing them —if possible—from carrying out the programs of sabotage and espionage originally feared and originally frustrated.

THIS IS a wholly unnecessary burden for the Army and the Bureau of Investigation.

It is a foolish thing to do. The utmost watchfulness cannot be relied upon to prevent enemy acts which may impair the war effort and cost American lives.

It is not even in the interest of the Japanese themselves.

They are more unwelcome and more bitterly resented on the West Coast than in the rest of the country, and are likely to encounter the antagonisms that are insuperable barriers to usefulness and happiness.

The practical and patriotic thing to do with Japanese in this country, as long as the war lasts, is to keep them away from danger to us and injury to themselves.

The War Department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation accomplished that practical and patriotic purpose once, and are now having it nullified by the War Relocation Authority.

Vermont Could Be Prouder

THE VERMONT Legislature has concluded a four-day special session with much accomplished.

Among the bills enacted is a measure which provides for the payment of ten dollars a month for each of the first twelve months' service to every non-commissioned Vermonter in the United States armed forces.

Another measure amends the State's election laws to permit absentee voting by service men and women.

With considerable truth Gov. William H. Wills has said:

"Vermont can be proud of being the first State to act on the Congressional action to provide voting facilities for our defenders."

Both Governor Wills and the Vermont Legislature could be immeasurably prouder if they had made it possible for the eighteen, nineteen and twenty-year-old service men and women from the Green Mountain State to cast ballots.

These youngsters are facing the same risks, dying the same deaths and serving the same great cause as their comrades who happen to be a few years older.

Consequently the youngsters are deserving of the same fair treatment by the grateful people back home.

When we say that an eighteen-year-old lad is old enough and responsible enough to carry a gun we have no moral right to say he is not old enough to cast a ballot.

Happy those
Who in after days shall live, when time
Hath spoken and the multitude of years
Taught wisdom to mankind!
—SOUTHEY.

HERE'S HOPING when that youngster of yours grows up, mankind will have achieved at least sufficient wisdom not to have any wars . . . Brooklyn, Philadelphia and Los Angeles are the three most misunderstood cities in the country. I will not go into detail on this subject now. All I want to say is the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn was nearly the perfect place for a lad of my tastes and inclinations. It was 30 minutes from Times sq., New York, 15 minutes from major league baseball, 20 minutes from three major race tracks, 20 minutes from Coney Island and 10 minutes from a major bike racing track. It was 15 minutes from big-time vaudeville and burlesque and in itself a great boxing center. Five minutes from our elegant flat you could find good swimming, fishing and boating. And in the winter, ice skating and bob sledding. But why go on? I just want you to know trees grew in the part of Brooklyn I lived in and there wasn't an underprivileged family in our entire neighborhood. Just in case you might misunderstand me, it was a neighborhood of hard-working people. My pa's top wage was $30 a week.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—How about the oddest name in history of major league baseball? Would you say it was Wambsganns? A—How about Prim of Chicago and Gee of Pittsburgh? Also, how about Sockalexis? Q—What was the most exciting moment in your life? A—Couldn't say offhand. Probably it was the time I bet my room rent on a steeplechase race. Q—Your columns go to my husband in the Seabees. He writes you have a battalion of Seabees for readers. They are in the New Hebrides and would like to send you a souvenir. What will you have? A—I would like to have a snapshot of your husband giving a Jap a good kick in the pants. On the snapshot I wish he would write "How Am I Doin'?" Plus his signature. I'll be looking for it.

DOCTORS' WIVES: Have heard of the wife of a well-known physician of Seattle who calls and refers to her husband as "Doc." She is a very unusual doctor's wife. The wife of a physician usually addresses and refers to him as "doctor" and generally in awed tones. It is refreshing to know there is one spirited wife of a doctor. It is a mistake to treat a husband, whether a doctor or not, with too much humility and respect. (Note—This latter comment is from our Mules and Men File. No. '982D.)

Copyright 1944, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"He said something about getting used to being under fire!"

ASIDES: "Am happily married and love my husband," writes a Chicagoan, "but I forgot my last wedding anniversary. My husband remembered, the sweet old thing. Most men are really very romantic in their own peculiar fashion. They should get more credit." . . . A San Franciscan says she was given a St. Christopher's medal. Said to be protection for travelers. She wore it regularly for 14 months then one day she lost it. That night she was nearly killed in an automobile accident. As I once related, the same thing happened to me in Paris.

SMART INFANTS: In addition to the Quiz Kids, Chicago seems to be raising quite a crop of infant prodigies. Nearly every day this department hears of some remarkable Chicago infant. Today a young matron of that city writes: "My 2-year-old daughter, Carol, sweeps the floor, wipes small dishes and silverware, scrubs her sox on a miniature washboard, shrieks when she hears Frank Sinatra on the radio, calls everybody 'Honey,' and can sing 'Shoo, Shoo Baby'!"

BRIEFLY: As we were strolling along the other day my girl friend said: "Look at that tiny house over there. And in the window it has three service stars." If I were an editorial writer I could base a good editorial on that remark . . . "Do you remember when the Phillies had a pitcher named Upp and a catcher named Dooin, and the laugh that went up when the battery was announced as Upp and Dooin!" asks a Philadelphian. I don't remember Upp, but I recall "Red" Dooin. At the time he played, the team also had players named Doolan and Dolan, and once the summary described a double play as being from "Doolan to Dooin to Dolan to Doolan to Dolan to Dooin."

PLEASE NOTE: It was of Trilby that George du Maurier said: "She had all the virtues but one." So you knew that? All right, smart boy; then tell me quick as a flash, what was Trilby's last name? . . . Fighting men smoke 40,000,000 cigars a month, according to a recent report. Is encouraging to know we have so many cigar smokers in the fighting forces. As I understand it, one United States fighting man, if a cigar smoker, can handle 12 Japs. Cigarette smokers can take care of 11, and pipe smokers 10.

SIDELIGHTS: Wild driving of autos is heavily penalized. How about a stiffer penalty for wild walking? Research indicates careless and inebriated pedestrians are responsible for nearly as many accidents as wild and drunk drivers . . . Who is the oldest active man in the world? How about Morris Cohen of London, Eng? Mr. Cohen, a 105-year-old widower, does all his own housework, cooking and shopping. When his house was bombed he pitched in vigorously and helped clear up the debris.

PASSING BY: "Candy" Jones. Musical show queen. She is in a show produced by Broadway's No. 1 producer and which stars Broadway's No. 1 comedian. That is traveling in very fast company. The show, of course, is "Mexican Hayride," the producer, Mike Todd and the comedian Bobby Clark . . . John P. Marquand. Seems to me he is the best of the current novelists. Mr. Marquand is quite a family man, being the proud pappy of three children, all of whom are under four years of age.

"M-M-M-M-M—you're getting quite careless. This is the second time this month you've been one ten-thousandth of an inch off!"

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 20—Well, it looks like the diaper-washing days of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Terry (also known as Joan Crawford) are over for good—or at least for a long time.

The Terrys, who have been taking their time about movie jobs, are going back to work. Joan, as we told you, does "Mildred Pearce" for Warners, and over the week-end Phil signed for the role opposite Anne Shirley in "Here Comes the Bride" at RKO.

What's more, the studio is taking an option on Terry, and he may remain on that lot. In addition to Anne and Phil, "Here Comes the Bride" also has Jane Darwell, just back from Broadway and a fling on the stage in "Suds in Your Eyes," in the cast. A word about the title—Para had "Here Comes the Bride" tied up, but RKO hopes to clear the title.

GARY COOPER isn't fooling about his producing plans. True, Sam Wood has talked him into starring in most of the movies they will produce independently. But Gary is determined to take a fling or two as a solo producer, and just to prove it he has bought "Love at First Flight," an original by Ensign Charles Spalding. It's a romantic comedy about the trials and tribulations of a young Navy aviator (really it is Ensign Spalding) during his training and cadet days. Gary won't star in his own production because he says he's too old for the cadet role.

★ ★ ★

AT LAST Joan Bennett is going to tear herself away from Stephanie, who is old enough to wave bye-bye and to recognize both her mother and her dad, Walter Wanger. If ever there was a good mother it's Joanie, who brings up her children so beautifully she is a credit to Hollywood. She shortly reports for work at 20th Century-Fox for "Merrily We Roll Along," the story of a "sassiety" gal who meets and falls in love with a soldier on leave. It's a rollicking comedy and is now in the hands of Wanda Tuchock, who is preparing the script for Producer Andre Devan. P. S. The title is M-G-M's property.

★ ★ ★

I HOPE it's true Penny Singleton is ready to talk business on the "Blondie" series with Columbia. "Blondie" should continue with Penny and Arthur Lake, whose "Dagwood" is a household word. I kept hearing that Penny was being a little difficult. I know that Arthur has remained at Columbia for outside movies, but the fans want him and they want Penny, so let's hope she and Columbia get together and the "Blondie" movie flourishes like the green bay tree. Over 7000 letters were received asking that this popular cartoon continue in the movies.

★ ★ ★

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Billy Rose and Mike Todd, those two wonder boys of Broadway, will have to "take it" from Olsen and Johnson, when O. and J. open their Broadway show "Jerks Berserk." Two midgets will play Billy Rose and Mike Todd and, believe it or not, they will be called by their right names. Olsen and Johnson have a budget of $25,000 to put in their new show next fall and from all I hear it is to be a honey. They are working on the idea between takes of their Universal film, "The Ghost Catchers."

★ ★ ★

THERE ISN'T much chance of

JOAN CRAWFORD
Halts Diaper-Washing

Buddy De Sylva's getting Sam Goldwyn's white-haired boy, Danny Kaye, for "Ready, Willing and 4-F." I hate to be bearer of bad news, but Danny starts "Wonder Boy" in early May, and possibly sooner. Then, according to his contract, his outside movie must have the approval of Goldwyn. Since Sam has spent $2,000,000 on "Up in Arms" he is going to be very choosey on any Kaye comedy.

★ ★ ★

A LINE OR TWO: Myrna Loy sent the following wire to M-G-M: "Arrive next week and need place to live. I'm not joking." What does she mean, she's "not joking!" . . . Bunny Waters can get in one more picture before she retires to await arrival of the heir or heiress. She goes in "Maisie Goes to Reno" (and I don't want to hear any cracks about "Mairzy Doats to Reno) with Ann Sothern. Bunny and Johnny Green hope it's a boy . . . Joe Pasternak is very eager for Lauritz Melchior to get off to a good start with the movie fans. So he is inviting you to send in suggestions to M-G-M about songs you would like to hear the Metropolitan Opera star sing. You don't necessarily have to stick to the operas or the classics—but "Shoo, Shoo, Baby" is out . . . What does E. V. Durling mean about us Leo gals wanting attention and flattery? Don't we deserve it?

★ ★ ★

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Carole Landis cooked dinner for her bridegroom, Capt. Wallace, Friday night; Merle Oberon is in town from her session with Sir Alex Korda. He has returned to London; the Charles Boyer baby was baptised in Father Patrick Concannon's church, "The Good Shepherd," last week and was given the name of Michael; Hedy Lamarr and Paul Henreid both have the flu, which means "The Conspirators" is held up; George Arliss is reported seriously ill in London. His heartbreak, following the accusation of laxity in his taxes, is a contributing cause; Dick Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein reach here April 15 to write the music and lyrics for "State Fair."

★ ★ ★

SUSANNA FOSTER may go into the hospital when she finishes her movie to get rid of that misbehaving appendix; Phil Baker's latest $64 question is, "How do you pronounce Imgard Eric?" the name of his prospective bride; the Danny Dankers celebrated their joint birthdays with a St. Patrick's party that went on and on into the day after. Dorothy Lamour, who was there with her bridegroom, said she is leaving for New York, but she'll be back for her first wedding anniversary April 7. Dolores Hope was there without Bob, who is away entertaining the service men. Niles Trammel, head of NBC, arrived in time for the party, and Edgar Bergen, Gracie Allen and George Burns and Gail Patrick were others who were flitting about having fun. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

My Day

By Eleanor Roosevelt

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTH AMERICA, Sunday—The first evening in Natal, a reception was held for the Brazilian officials and the Army and Navy officers at the U. S. base. Mme. Salgado and the senor interventor for the state were hosts at the dinner given at the guest house.

At 10 p. m. we started out for operational headquarters. This is one of the busy spots where night can be as active as day. Gen. Robert Walsh asked me to notice particularly that the restaurant ran all night, so that those who go through can get food at any hour.

VERY GOOD HAMBURGERS were being cooked and Brazilian coffee, which is usually stronger than ours, seemed to be very popular. I am sure my husband would be entirely satisfied.

The following morning we visited our Army and Navy and the Brazilian forces. At 11:30 we gathered at the naval base to attend the formal ceremonies where a Navy flying squadron was decorated for its courageous achievements during the last few months.

The squadron consists of a wonderful looking group of young men, and I was very happy when Vice-Adm. Jonas Ingram gave me the opportunity to pin on their decorations.

★ ★ ★

WE LUNCHED at the transient enlisted men's mess. Mme. Salgado, wife of the minister of aviation for Brazil, and two younger Brazilian ladies were extremely popular with our men, who asked a tremendous number of questions about Brazil. On the drive back, we reviewed a number of Brazilian army contingents and attended a charming double flag-raising ceremony which was held at one of the Brazilian establishments.

Probe $50,000 Blaze At Golden Rule Farm

TILTON, N. H., March 20—Fire officials today sought to determine the cause of a $50,000 blaze which destroyed a large barn, killing two horses, eight cattle, 18 pigs and 900 hens, and damaged Webster Cottage, a dormitory, at the Golden Rule Farm for boys.

It was the second $50,000 fire at the institution in seven weeks; Clarence Shaw, a volunteer fireman, was injured.

Wightman Bridal

By BETTY ALDEN

DOROTHY WIGHTMAN, youngest daughter of Mrs. Hazel V. Wightman, patron saint of American women's tennis, was married yesterday afternoon to Lieut. William Benson Peavey, USNR, of New York.

The small family wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother in Chestnut Hill with Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt officiating. George Wightman, Jr., brother of the bride, gave her in marriage.

Despite the typical wartime haste with which the wedding was planned Dorothy had a traditional bridal gown and all the memorable sentimental fixin's. Lieut. Peavey just returned from a year of active duty in the Mediterranean and is taking his bride to his next post in Florida. The engagement was announced last Thursday.

With her blush satin gown which had a deep yoke of old family lace the bride wore a lace veil borrowed from her cousins, Mrs. Paul Shaw (Betty Pope) and Mrs. M. Bernard Fox (Lucy Pope). She carried white orchids.

Mrs. Fox and Mrs. A. Mason Harlow, Jr., sister of the bride, were matrons of honor, wearing pale blue chiffon and carrying mixed spring flowers. S. Fillmore Peavey, 3d, brother of the groom, was best man and due to the simplicity of the wedding there were no ushers.

Dorothy, who is well known in tennis circles, is a member of the Junior League. She graduated from Winsor School and from Smith College last December. Lieut. Peavey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Fillmore Peavey, Jr., graduated from Harvard in 1940.

Proctor of Arlington, N. J.

Interestingly shaped . . topped with simulated tortoise-shell . . . it was designed by Josef . . . and comes in all the shades to complement your suit . . . green, purple, red, tan, navy, black and brown. 'Wash' Face for Glamour

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

IF YOU'VE often wondered what the cosmetologists can think up next to enhance your facial beauty . . . and make you the cynosure of envious eyes . . take time out to read about this sensational new complexion tint . . . that is not only a proven boon for sallow, drab skins . . . but will definitely put your complexion "in the pink."

Like a delicate and beautiful Renoir painting . . . that same limpid, lucid quality . . . like a newly opened wild meadow rose . . . that's how you'll look after WASHING your face all over with this startling and sensational wild rose complexion tint.

It's terrific . . . this entirely new conception of make-up . . . this clear liquid in soft rose tint that you wash . . . yes wash . . . over your face. It is enormously flattering and suggestive of all the delightful characteristics of youth and vitality.

EVEN FOR SENSITIVE SKINS

Your face will actually come alive with that faint delicate rosy flush . . . like the healthy bloom of a young child's skin. If your complexion is inclined to be sallow . . . or even a bit drab and pale . . . as who of us isn't after the long winter away from the sun . . . all you do is wash your face with this tint . . . and in much the same as if you touched a magical wand and asked for a warm, rosy complexion . . . the change is yours for the doing.

Even if you have the most sensitive skin . . . you can wear this unusual and magical new kind of makeup tint . . . and assume the face of a fresh pink rose this eventful spring. It doubtless will step up your whole personality . . . giving you a new, youthful rhythm and sparkle that will be irresistible to everyone who sees you "in the pink."

This preparation has been created by a modern medical research laboratory . . . whose products have a "clinical feeling" of simplicity and easy-to-use. And, the dermatologist who supervises all the preparations sponsored by this house . . . has given the new complexion tint his thorough approval.

THERE'S A DEEPER TONE

Over this complexion tint you apply your foundation . . . and finish with your face powder as usual. The wild rose complexion tint will glow through it like your own healthy color . . . and none of the artifice of a rouged make-up.

If you like the warm, mellowness of the dahlia . . . the tint also comes in a deeper tone for a deeper glow. And for the suntanned face . . . to sport a make-believe Florida vacation under southern skies . . . there is the bittersweet tint . . . like a very light bit of milk chocolate.

For the name of this original make-up idea, this new wild rose complexion tint, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ESPECIALLY WONDERFUL for skins inclined to be sallow and colorless . . . and a brand new aid to put your complexion "in the pink" . . . is a startling and exciting new wild rose complexion tint . . . to be used prior to your foundation and subsequent makeup. Washed all over the face . . . your skin will flush with the faint, delicate rosieness of a child's bloom.

Maternal Jealousy Wrecks Marriages

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: Is there such a thing as a mother caring so much for her son that she's willing to destroy his marriage to have her way? My mother and I were devoted. She didn't want me to marry anybody, and when I did marry she didn't like my wife.

Now that I'm in the service, she continually writes me that my wife is dating other fellows. I don't expect a 19-year-old girl never to go out to any place of amusement, and I understand that my wife doesn't go out unless with a group of young people, most of whom I know. But these letters are very upsetting.

What is it—just maternal jealousy, or, what is harder to believe, is my mother just a mischief maker? S. P. G.

Maternal jealousy has wrecked a good many marriages with the result that the young man has frequently found himself hoisted from the frying pan into the fire. Jealousy may often prompt a woman to interfere with her son's first choice.

Tell your mother not to write you any more letters about your wife's shortcomings and that you believe in her absolutely.

Spring Hat of Necktie Silk

By BETTINA BEDWELL

HIJACKING is accepted in fashion circles as part of it all, and I have never heard of any serious crusade against it.

A favorite method of the stylemakers is to make forays against the material of which the men's clothes are made. This spring there has been a record amount of hijacking from this source. Not the least is necktie silk, which may be already seriously short. But, somehow the designers of clothes for women have managed to get hold of a lot of it for the ladies.

Very, very smart is the spring hat of necktie silk, and one model of this is sketched. This is a brimmed hat of gray and white striped necktie silk, and the whole brim is covered with fringes made from the silk. They don't care how much of the men's material they waste, you see.

Model is from Braagaard, a man.

Cuts Time To Cook

By MARTHA LEE

LENTEN MENUS, even in wartime, can be nutritious and have appetite appeal as well. There's literally no limit to the variety appeal of egg dishes if you try your hand at scalloped or creamed versions with vegetables.

Try the quick-frozen vegetables when you're pressed for time. They cook in half the time required for other vegetables—which is another time-saving angle.

CORN PUDDING

1 tbsp. melted butter or margarine
1 tbsp. flour 1¼ tsp. salt
½ tsp. sugar ⅛ tsp. pepper
1½ cups rich milk
1 tsp. scraped onion
1 tbsp. chopped pimiento
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 box (10 oz.) golden corn, thawed

Combine melted butter, flour, salt, sugar and pepper. Add milk slowly, stirring until smooth. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, add onion, pimiento, eggs and corn, and mix well. Turn into baking dish. Set dish in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 1 hour, or until set. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

GREEN BEAN RAREBIT WITH POTATOES

1 box (10 oz.) quick-frozen green beans, cut or French style ¼ tsp. paprika
2 cups seasoned white sauce
1 tsp. scraped onion
¼ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tbsp. diced pimiento
½ to ¾ cup grated American cheese
5 or 6 hot baked potatoes

Drop frozen green beans into briskly boiling salted water, bring again to a boil, and boil 8 to 12 minutes, or until just tender. Make white sauce. When thickened add onion, paprika, Worcestershire sauce, pimiento, cheese and beans. Stir until cheese is melted. Break open hot potatoes, season with salt and pepper and arrange on platter. Cover with rarebit mixture. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

CORN PUDDING

Note: If desired, ¾ cup diced cooked meat may be added.

RICE AND VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

2 cups cooked rice
1 box (10 oz.) quick-frozen green peas, thawed
1 box (10 oz.) quick-frozen golden sweet corn, thawed
2 tbsp. minced onion
2 strips bacon (optional—may be dotted with butter or margarine) ¼ tsp. pepper
1½ cups milk 1 tsp. salt

Place in layers in greased baking dish; when casserole is filled, add milk. Place bacon strips or butter on top, and bake until brown, about 40 minutes in 350 deg. F. oven. Makes 8 servings.

PLATTER OF RICE AND PEAS

2 cups cooked rice 5 eggs
½ cup grated cheese
6 tbsp. butter or margarine, melted ¾ tsp. salt
1 box (10 oz.) quick-frozen peas, thawed Parsley

Mix the melted butter, salt, peas and half the grated cheese thoroughly with the rice. Spread on buttered oven-proof platter. Make five small wells in the rice, drop an egg into each, sprinkle the remainder of the cheese over the rice and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 30 minutes, or until eggs are set and cheese is melted; or set the platter under a moderate broiler flame to cook the eggs and melt the cheese. Makes 5 servings.

Broadway

NEW YORK, March 20—Archibald is a millionaire industrialist with one weakness—you guessed it. He is always in love with some pretty girl—usually a show belle—and each romance lasts approximately a year. Archibald is so earnest and so generous that each love of his life usually gives up her career to stay around and make him happy, which is fine until he falls out of love; then it's bad. Annually, Archibald faces the problem (an expensive one) of keeping out of the papers and out of the courts.

His most recent dilemma concerned a lovely named Genevieve. When he prepared to give her the gentle but firm heave-ho, she proclaimed she was so madly in love with him she couldn't live without him—and didn't intend to.

So Archibald tried a new technique. He retained a handsome but unemployed young actor named Sidney and provided him with lavish funds with which to entertain—and eventually woo—Genevieve, while (according to the plot) Archibald was out of town on business.

IT WAS NICE work, and Sidney liked it. Before long, so did Genevieve. And when Archibald "returned" from his trip, his dilemma had fallen for the handsome young man and vice versa.

However, the cure is proving more expensive than the problem. Because Sidney has persuaded Genevieve that our millionaire should pay for the year he took out of her life—just enough so that they can be married and live happily ever after on Archibald's coin!

But you can't print that. Archibald has a headache now. Think what he'd have if his wife (of course, they always have a wife, don't they?) found out!

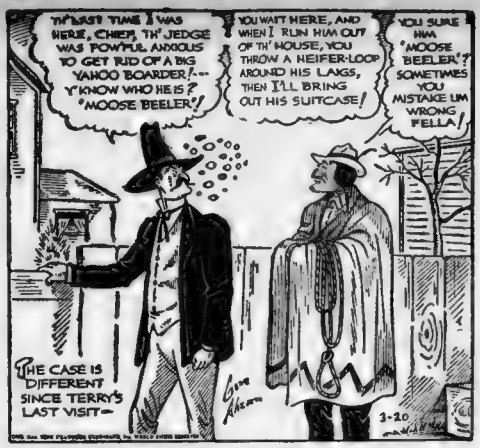
OLGA IS a lovely and talented Continental singer who came to this country with her parents to seek the freedom and fame that were denied her in her native land. She secured minor jobs in a few Broadway shows, but nothing big came to her way until she was given a really important role in a musical described by the critics as lavish, breath-taking, eye-filling, et cetera.

Delighted, Olga—and her parents, who were theatrical people themselves—worked on the song day and night, trying to make it a high spot in the show. It took a little time. During the first few nights of the out-of-town tryouts the song met a cold reception. Olga's father, trying to hide his disappointment, left for New York on business, and Olga, with just her mother standing by to encourage her, kept trying to put the song across.



TH' LAST TIME I WAS HERE, CHIEF, TH' JEDGE WAS POWFUL ANXIOUS TO GET RID OF A BIG YAHOO BOARDER!— Y'KNOW WHO HE IS? 'MOOSE BEELER'!
YOU WAIT HERE, AND WHEN I RUN HIM OUT OF TH' HOUSE, YOU THROW A HEIFER-LOOP AROUND HIS LAGS, THEN I'LL BRING OUT HIS SUITCASE!
YOU SURE HIM 'MOOSE BEELER'? SOMETIMES YOU MISTAKE UM WRONG FELLA!
THE CASE IS DIFFERENT SINCE TERRY'S LAST VISIT—
Gene Ahern
3-20

Finally one night it happened. The spark that had eluded Olga was suddenly there. She and the song stopped the show.

OVERJOYED, she rushed to the telephone, called her father and poured out the wonderful news. And there success and tragedy joined hands in Olga's life. Her father's weak heart was unable to stand all this happiness. He collapsed. A few hours later he died.

Olga hid her grief behind her grease paint and reported back to the show the next night. There was a little solace in all the anguish. Her father had known of her triumph before he died.

But that night at the theater they took her triumph away from her . . . The producer and the composer had held a conference that day—and, as a result of it, Olga never sang her song again. It had been given to the show's leading lady.

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, March 20—And when I patrol it I see many odd things, such as the habits of wolves. The wolf, in the Hollywood jungle, is not the hunted, but does the hunting. I have seen a wolf take out a starlet or a stock contract actress to Romanoff's or Chasen's, and do you know what his game is? Wait. You'll find out.

A young actress will be delighted that a man about town has phoned her and asked for a date. She coyly pretends that she is busy tonight, but tomorrow night that would be just super.

So she spends the next morning shopping and the entire afternoon at the beauty parlor, for she intends to look better than her best.

The young wolf calls for the prey and they go to R's or C's, where he has made a reservation, and they order. They are eating, and the dialogue is mostly the introductory stuff.

BUT THEN comes something she wasn't prepared for: the wolf beckons to another wolf who is sitting across the way in a booth with his particular prey.

Soon this wolf and his starlet come over and join the wolf and his contract player. "Would you be sore, honey," says the wolf, "if I play him one game of gin? He hooked me last night and I'd like to get even." What can the little actress say. She has to be pleasant. She puts on the phony smile she learned in the dramatic class at the studio and answers, "Why, no, dear. Go on. Anything you want to do is all right with me."

Of course, it isn't anything of the kind. Here she is out with a Hollywood personality, who has a name and a reputation, and she is spending the evening in a booth in a restaurant trying to make conversation with a starlet. And it's just as tough for the starlet.

THIS GOES on and on. By now the stock actress hasn't anything to say to the starlet, they are just looking at each other. Then the wolf says, "I never saw cards like these. It's even worse than last night. Honey, why don't you girls play a little gin?"

Well, when it's time for the restaurant to close, the two wolves are still at it, playing gin. And the starlet and the actress have been playing a bored and loose game of gin, for they know their boy friends will take care of their losses.

The game is over now.

THE GIRL bids the wolf goodnight, and enters her apartment alone and disgusted. Here she went to the trouble and expense of buying new clothes, getting prettied up, and what happens? She kibitzed a game of gin rummy and then played some gin herself.

She did get a consolation prize a couple of days later when an item appeared in a column saying that she and the wolf were a thing. She bought copies of the paper and mailed it to her folks back home and her former beau, for it certainly looked as if she was part of the Hollywood glamour and was having a riot of a time, like she used to dream about. Although she knew, from experience, that on the Hollywood beat, gin rummy has taken the place of

"Pick up three winches? Blondes or brunettes, boss?"

Palestine

By George E. Sokolsky

WHEN HAROLD ICKES discussed the Arabian pipeline on America's Town Meeting of the Air, someone in the the audience asked him about Palestine and he dodged the issue on the grounds that it involved current diplomatic questions which it was not his province to discuss. Of course, anyone who lays himself open to public heckling has to be prepared to answer the hecklers. And the question was pertinent.

It is impossible to ignore the fact that if Palestine is closed to the Jews on March 31, as the British White Paper prescribes, no place is left open to them.

IT IS TRUE that the Arabs have a vested interest in Palestine, but they have done nothing with and for the country. Over the centuries, they have permitted arable lands to grow arid, rivers to become silted, notable cities to degenerate into filthy towns.

The Jew, in a short period of little more than half a century has developed some areas into orange and eucalyptus groves, into modern farms competently producing agricultural products. He has built a new, modern city, Tel Aviv. He has established an excellent university. He has created hydroelectric power and begun the utilization of such natural resources as the chemicals of the Dead Sea.

THE GREATEST possibilities for Palestine lay in Arab-Jewish co-operation. Were this a righteous world, such powers as Great Britain and the United States would have encouraged Arab and Jew to find a basis for economic and political co-operation.

Unfortunately, Great Britain pursued two opposite policies: One encouraged the Jews to believe that Great Britain would support a Jewish homeland in Palestine under a British mandate from the League of Nations; the other encouraged the Arabs to depend upon British controls rather than upon co-operation with the Jews. In the end, the British became definitely antagonistic to further Jewish developments in Palestine. At one time, they proposed a partition scheme which was as impractical as it was cynical. Finally, they set a date for closing the doors of Palestine to further Jewish migration—and that date comes precisely at the most tragic moment in all Jewish history since the temple was betrayed and burned two thousand years ago.

The United States is a party to this quarrel because of an Anglo-American treaty covering the subject. Recognizing Great Britain's difficulties and having no desire to add to them, the United States might have with some justification stood aside while her ally solved the problem.

Actually, this country has piled complication upon complication. First, we made Ibn-Saud a present of more money—it is reported to be $25,000,000 in gold—than he has ever seen before at one time. Then we propose to build this amazing pipeline in his desert where it can really be of no service to the war. Then, when Congress is considering a resolution upholding a treaty, Gen. George Marshall's prestige and position is politically exposed in support of the Arabs. Then the President lets it be known that things are being fixed so that the door will not be closed on March 31. It is anyone's choice to know what to believe.

But tragedy stalks millions of human beings who are unwanted where they are, hopeless of their own future, trodden beneath the hoof of policy, helpless, homeless, stateless. And the Star of David shines for them not as a beacon but as a mirage.

30 Tony Shucco Signs Ring Pact With Johnston

By JACK CONWAY

INSPIRED BY THE record gates that boxing is drawing in all parts of the United States and his feeling that he can quickly get into first class fighting condition, Tony Shucco has decided to return to the ring wars. The Boston heavyweight, who has fought Jimmy Braddock, Jack Sharkey, Al McCoy and many other stars, has placed himself under the management of Jimmy Johnston of New York.

Shucco and Johnston should prove a winning combination. Johnston directed Bob Pastor in both of his title bouts with Joe Louis. Pastor went the full 10-round distance in the first contest.

Tony Shucco

If Pastor had followed Johnston's advice in the second bout, he might have won the championship. Johnston told Pastor to box Louis. Instead Bob made it a stand up fight in the first round and was dropped to the canvas. Pastor managed to weather the round. He then boxed, and won several rounds before Louis caught up with him in the eleventh session and scored a knockout.

"I have signed a contract with Jimmy Johnston and I feel we shall do well," Shucco told me at the ringside of the LaMotta-Welch bout. "I am in fairly good condition, and with three or four weeks of training I shall be sharp in my boxing and in picking the spots for my punches."

Secretly Shucco has always aspired to get a crack at Joe Louis. He has held the opinion that his boxing style would cause the "Brown Bomber" a great deal of trouble.

If the war ends within a year, Johnston is likely to pilot Shucco into a Louis match. Johnston always has the happy faculty of moving boxers under his management into the big money spots.

Finnegan Is Promoted

DICK FINNEGAN, one of the greatest featherweights to represent New England and later a court officer, has been promoted to the rank of lieutenant (jg) in the Navy. Finnegan first started boxing years ago when in the Navy. It was natural that when the United States entered the war that Dick should return to the Navy. He was given the rank of warrant officer and sent to California on a shore patrol detail. Dick has done such a fine job that he has been commissioned.

Lieut. Finnegan writes from Vallejo, California, as follows:

"They have assigned me to the same position as the JR officer on shore patrol in the town of Vallejo, Cal. This town has grown from 20,000 to 110,000 people. The town is connected with the Mare Island shipyard so you see we are a very busy outfit as we handle all the personnel of the armed forces which come in here from the South Pacific and other war zones. There are about 40,000 workmen on the island.

"Considering the number of men who come ashore here they are a credit to the Navy as we have very little trouble other than drinking and fighting over who has the best ship, which is an old Navy tradition that has gone on and I hope will go on forever, as it shows the men are proud of their ships and the officers aboard.

"The shore patrol is here to see that men wearing the uniform respect it and act like any other respectable citizen. We are here to help the sailor out of any difficulty he may get in and not to get him into trouble. Sailors who get a little too much and become under the weather are taken into custody and sent back to their ships or station with NO charges. It is all done for the benefit of all concerned.

"The police here are very cooperative and most of their men are in the service, so you see we are practically policing the town and it has met with the approval of all. We at no time interfere with the civilians and if necessary we get a civilian policeman to take care of them. When I first came here this was a pretty wild town, as they had very few shore patrolmen, but now they have it under control and everyone is happy.

"This isn't the most pleasant job in the world, but taking care of the boys is a very worthy job. The sights we see and the stories we hear are really pathetic."

Racing Rule Change

THE RULE banning persons associated with race tracks from racing their thoroughbreds at their own track is expected to be discussed by the New England racing commissioners and officials when they meet at the Hotel Statler tomorrow noon.

Chairman Charles F. Connors of the Massachusetts Racing Commission indicated to this writer there is a strong inclination to scrap this rule. Men who have invested their money in racing should be more anxious to keep the game on a high level than anyone else.

New York, Maryland, Kentucky and many other states permit association owners to race horses at their own tracks. This is one of the reasons the Whitneys, Vanderbilts, Bradleys, Wideners and other big name people in racing have established such extensive stables. They like to see their colors enter the winner's circle at the track with which they are associated.

The racing commissioners and officials will also consider fully methods that can be taken to improve the condition of the turf sport in New England. The 1944 season will open at Narragansett Park on April 12 and it should be a record-breaker.

Tribe Seen Stronger Than at 1943 Opener

By BILL GRIMES

WALLINGFORD, Ct., March 20—In the event that the pitching corps is not called upon to make any more contributions to the armed forces, the Braves will be better fortified to compete against the 1944 contenders for the National League pennant than they were at the start of last season.

There were only five infielders listed on the Braves' 1943 roster but there are 10 this year. Tony Cuccinello, who was trying a comeback with a pair of dead legs and Mike Sandlock, who stayed out of baseball, were listed on the 1943 roster as infielders.

During the off season, Bob Quinn scoured the country for infielder material. He had lost Johnny McCarthy to the Navy, Eddie Joost to a defense plant and had traded Joey Burns and Heinie Heltzell to Indianapolis.

THREE-CORNERED FIGHT

Buck Etchison, up from Hartford, and Kirby Farrell, who took over when Johnny McCarthy broke his leg during the second western trip last season, are battling for the custodianship of the initial sack. There's a three cornered fight for the keystone sack berth, between Connie Ryan, who will report Thursday, Steve Shemo, ex-Springfield third sacker and Ben Geraghty. Ryan was in and out of the lineup last season and he must step on the gas this spring if he has any intention of getting a regular job, for he will get some real competition from Shemo and Geraghty.

Dee Phillips, who was drafted from Syracuse, will be insurance for Whitey Wietelmann. Phillips is a fine defensive player, but he has never been potent with the bat. Manager Bob Coleman and Coaches Tom Sheehan and Benny Bengough are giving considerable time and thought to Phillips' batting style. And when they discover why Phillips hasn't hit better than the .200 mark, they will suggest changes in his style.

SABENA NEW ACE

Mike Sandlock had the call on the third base job, but Mike Sabena has caught the eyes of Bob Coleman and his aides. Sabana was recently discharged from the U. S. Army. He has shown up well in infield drills and has displayed unusual power at bat.

The Braves' pitching staff can stand some re-enforcements. Jim Tobin and Al Javery, two of the four 1943 starting hurlers, are in camp. How long they will be available no one knows. If Red Barrett reports, it will not be until the start of the regular season. And, like Tobin and Javery, he may be grabbed by the armed forces.

Of course, due to his two trick knees, Jim Tobin may be rejected by the Army. Ben Cardoni, who was with the Braves for awhile last year and Carl Lindquist, who was taken from Hartford to make the last western trip, are both 4-F. Ira Hutchinson goes up for his physical today in Chicago and will report the result to Bob Quinn tomorrow but it does not look as though Jack Dagenhard will report, for he is in a defense plant and 2-B.

Cronin Works Sox on Sabbath

Sunday was no day of rest for Joe Cronin's miniature Red Sox squad. The Skipper marshalled his boys at Tufts shortly after noon and put them through a lively batting and fielding drill with a stiff session of calisthenics sandwiched in.

The Sox are starting a week later than other clubs in getting down to serious work with all hands on the job and for that reason Cronin will insist on the few men present getting in all work possible this week.

North End Boys Star With Priest at Helm

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Here's an orchid to the Rev. Arthur D. Morley, a sports-minded friend of the kids of the North End, particularly the kids of St. Stephen's Parish.

A year ago this time, there was a disorganized group of youngsters fighting for recognition as a basketball team—playing in bathing trunks, without a gymnasium—and even worse, no leader. They were a good bunch, badly in need of a coach and organizer who could teach them some of the finer points of the game.

They got more than they bargained for in Father Morley!

Not only did he develop real team play for them but he arranged for regular practice sessions. He put them in leagues—the Catholic Youth Organizations and the Boston Park Department circuits. They'll be wearing slick, gold uniforms when they play the Coast Guard five tomorrow night and in the Amateur Basketball Tournament which opens this week.

ORGANIZED ALL KIDS

Father Morley took over his new self-assigned duties with the slam of a bazooka. He not only organized an intermediate club—kids over 15 and under 19—but he rounded up a team of juniors for grade schoolers. He's even got the midgets of the parish playing in the gyms, shooting baskets in the Coast Guard gymnasium at Constitution Wharf, through the courtesy of Commander Charles "Chick" Shea.

If the kids aren't at the Coast Guard site, they're over at the North Bennett gym, obtained through the persistent efforts of Father Morley. It's the home gym of the kids now where they've played games three nights a week in ringing up the championship of the C. Y. O. Intermediate loop with a record of 12 victories against a single defeat.

This team, with such kids as George Ferrara, six-foot center and play-maker, Santo Cappasella, Pasty Ferrullo, a crackerjack scorer, Sonny Santoro, defensive genius, Archie Torino, Johnnie Rago and Al Francione, also captured the Conference Division of the Park League. It's quite a call from John F. Fitzgerald's days and the Dearos.

FIGHT FOR CROWN

They had quite a fight of it to win the C. Y. O. crown. Taking over for St. Rose's of Chelsea after the season was three weeks old, the St. Stephen's five had virtually to double up its games to fill in the part of the schedule it had missed, winding up in a deadlock with St. Stanislaus, Chelsea, in the final game of the season. A play-off on neutral Dorchester High floor, found the North End cagers coming through on top by a 33-23 count.

Meanwhile, Father Morley's Junior team was hanging up an equally enviable record, romping to eight straight victories for the C. Y. O. District Junior crown. Paced by Mike Marino, averaging 15 points a game, and Sam Ciulla, the Juniors captured their second title in as many years, having taken the City Wide Boys' Club pennant previously.

Public NY Hearing For Jockey Merritt

NEW YORK, March 20 (INS) — Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the New York State Racing Commission, indicted today that the scheduled Commission-Jockey Club hearing on Jockey Bobby Merritt's eligibility to ride on New York tracks will be held publicly.

JOHN WARNER TALKS ABOUT BALDNESS

In a talk over the radio, John E. Warner, foremost scalp specialist, said: "Take care of your hair while you have it, for baldness is a permanent condition. Nearly every day I am asked to regrow hair for someone who has waited too long—and, of course, I have to tell such individuals that I can't help them. The man who is losing his hair can, in such cases as I accept, be reasonably sure of saving and improving his hair through progressive steps of medication and treatment."

Thousands of men and women have saved and improved their hair through the Warner method of treatment, but no case is ever accepted unless beneficial results are reasonably certain. There is never any charge for a private examination and consultation — and in every case honest advice is given as to whether or not treatment can be helpful.

Fees for treatment are very moderate and are taken—not in advance. There are separate departments for men and women.

Hours: Monday, Wednesday and Friday 11:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, 9:00 a. m. to 6:00 p. m.

Ryder 'Forgotten Man' On Dodds' Record Spree

By HUCK FINNEGAN

IN ALL the hullabaloo over Gilbert Dodds and his two world mile records in successive weeks, it would seem that his coach, Jack Ryder, qualifies for the "forgotten man" award of the 1943-44 track campaign.

The affluent AAU did not invite the BC-BAA coach to accompany Dodds on his trans-continental tour with Gunder Hagg last summer. He was not invited by the Chicago Daily News to watch Gil lower the mile record to 4:06.4 on the week-end. Nor has he been asked to go along with Gil to Cleveland where, Friday night, the divinity student will attempt to break Greg Rice's two-mile record of 8:51.

Lloyd Hahn

Ryder isn't beefing. In fact, he'd rather have it that way because a fellow Jack's age is more comfortable at the fireside than touring cross-country.

Only reason we bring it up is that Saturday night, after Gil lowered the record to 4:06.4, "Coach" Lloyd Hahn was invited to tell the world how his "pupil" had done it. "I mapped a time schedule for him, and he adhered to it strictly," said Hahn. "He missed it by only 4-10ths of a second." Evidently Chicago thinks Hahn is Dodds' coach.

Risks Pneumonia

WHEN DID HAHN do all this mapping? And where? Not at B.C. surely because he hasn't been around this section since Ryder made him a half-miler and mile champ. And that was almost 20 years ago. No it's Ryder who's been risking pneumonia on B.C.'s windswept board track mapping Dodd's schedule, holding the clock on him, humoring him, etc.

Oftimes we wonder why he bothers. He doesn't get a quarter for it. The BAA isn't the organization it was 30 years ago. It long since has ceased to sponsor a track team, though it does stage an indoor meet and promotes the Patriots' Day Marathon. But the BAA "track team" is composed solely of Dodds, and there would be no Dodds if Ryder didn't coach him. He's lost without him. And it was Hahn who sent Dodds to Ryder!

One other angle. What would the track promoters have done this winter without Dodds? He and he alone has been filling the arenas week after week. He alone has the spectators screaming for a new record every Saturday.

Chicago and Cleveland bank on him to fill their arenas, yet they don't see fit to pay the traveling expenses of the man who made him.

Let them keep it up and you'll see professional racing here again sure as shootin'. And who wants that?

Tufts Hero Dies

DODDS' SCHEDULE at Chicago was no different from his other indoor starts: 60, 2:01, 3:03. We were at BC when Ryder mapped it. Gil was 60 to the dot, missed the half-mile mark by 1/10th of a second (2:00.1), the ¾ post by one full second (3:04), and the 4:06 mile by 4/10ths of a second (4:06.4) . . . He'll be running on a 12-lap track at Cleveland but since he trains on a 12-lap track at the Heights the shift from the 11-lap saucers shouldn't bother him. He's got it in him to beat 8:50 for the two miles. Whether he gets it out is another question. He had that 4:06 mile in him for two years before he delivered. But he seems to be gaining in confidence and should be able to give Hagg and Andersson a go of it if the Swedes come over this summer. They'll be over unless the war takes a turn for the worse . . . Incidentally, Bill Hulse deserves a pat on the back for his fine race against Dodds at Chicago. The New York AC boy has been held back by a strep throat and long hours in the US Rubber plant. But he never stopped trying. He'll reach his peak during the outdoor season. . . . Herb McKenley (600), and Ralph King (dash), winners of New England championships Saturday, will accompany Dodds to Cleveland . . . Day off for Dodds today. Ryder's been working him only Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays for several weeks, with Wednesday the only real stiff workout.

★ ★ ★

Duncan Blanchard, N. E. mile champion, is only 19. He's a Pittsfield boy who was in Harvard's V-12 program, was switched to Tufts March 1. Ding Dussault says he'll win the IC4-A outdoor two-mile title "if the field isn't any better than it was indoors." . . . Capt. Ted Rockwell of Belmont, who died a hero at Anzio, was a member of Tufts two-mile relay that finished second in the BAA games two years ago. He enlisted in May, 1942, out of the sophomore class.

N. H. Team Wins Hearst Cup

Piscataqua Rifle and Revolver Club has the coveted William Randolph Hearst Trophy back at its club headquarters in Portsmouth, N. H., for the third time in four years today.

The Portsmouth marksmen fired a score of 715 in the finals of the William Randolph Hearst Citizen Marksmanship Competition at the Commonwealth Armory enabling them to retain their title by a scant two points from the New Bedford Revolver and Rifle Club.

Arlington Rifle Club, winner of the postal preliminary, finished third with a total of 706, Woodstock Rifle and Pistol Club was fourth with 670 and Keene Rifle Club was fifth with 665.

The finals were run off without a hitch thanks to Col. Nathaniel C. Nash, Jr., chairman of the shoot committee and Capt. Louis Lutz and Capt. Walter Darling, the other two members of the committee. Walter McFate, as range officer, also turned in a perfect job.

A record entry list is scheduled for this p. m., according to the N. E. A. A. A. U., sponsoring the tourney. A 147-pounder with plenty of promise is Clarence Perkins of the U. S. Coast Guard stationed in Boston. He hails from Chattanooga, Tenn., and is a former Golden Gloves winner in his home town.
